

This chapter was translated for <http://nuttyisprocrasinating.wordpress.com> only. And only for those people who don't mind reading unprofessional translation that was being translated FREELY at the translator's, editor's and proofreaders' own free times.

Chapter 77.1

You Xiao's Pain

You Xiao's expression was still as dull as before, but unconsciously he wrinkled his eyebrows. After a long time, just when Qi Feng Hua thought that his soul retrieving technique was not perfected yet, You Xiao slowly answered, "I... do not."

He does not? After being hypnotized by the soul retrieving technique, a person basically could not resist it. Unless this question was really heavy in the person's heart, it was possible the person could still resist it with a strong will. So, was it a difficult question to him whether or not he liked his own enemy?! Qi Feng Hua secretly smiled; it seemed that Xiao Jun who was still inside the hanging curtain, was somewhat relieved with this answer. But for him, You Xiao's answer would equal to... yes, that maybe he had not found out the truth yet.

You Xiao was clearly acting different from his previous temperament, so the accompanying soldiers all felt that this matter was strange. Taking the lead, the young general walked over to You Xiao's side and puzzlingly asked, "General, are you alright?!"

You Xiao did not answer, and it was as if the young general did not exist at all. The young general hesitated for a moment before he still extended his hand and waved it in front of You Xiao's eyes. He still did not get any response. Qi Feng Hua warned in a clear voice, "It is best that you do not disturb the divination that I am giving to your General, otherwise, there might be a mishap and it could hurt your General and I will not be able to control it."

"Impudent!" The young general glowered at Qi Feng Hua, but since the General was like this now, they could not act rashly and could only say regrettably, "You, this hypnotizer, it will be best if you do not play any tricks! If there is any mishap to the General, we will immediately decapitate you!"

For Qi Feng Hua, his threatening did not have any substance at all, so he lazily said, "It is best that you guys just shut up."

"You!!" The soldiers originally had fiery tempers anyway, so how could they be provoked like this?! In a rage the young general took out a long sword and stabbed it toward Qi Feng Hua's body, but before he could approach him, he was bounced back by a strong force and awkwardly fell down. At this time, they realized that this white clothed youngster in front of them was a powerful person! So, one after another, the soldiers took out their swords and surrounded Qi Feng Hua, but they did not know how to begin to attack him!

Qi Feng Hua turned a blind eye to the long swords that were approaching him and continued to draw in You Xiao's sight just like before, as he continued on by asking, "Do you have an antidote for your poison?"

"I do."

Sure enough! Qi Feng Hua was delighted in his heart and immediately asked again, "Where is it?"

"In my chest."

Just when he went to extend his hand, he stopped it midair; he had to look at You Xiao's eyes since he was such a determined person. If Qi Feng Hua was even a little inattentive, he might escape. After thinking it over, Qi Feng Hua quietly said, "Take out the antidote."

You Xiao inconceivably extended his hand into his chest and then took out a black porcelain bottle. Qi Feng Hua took it, opened the lid, and sniffed it. The smell of blood rushed forth, so inside it must be the blood disorderly pill which was the best antidote in the whole world. This should be it! Qi Feng Hua originally wanted to stop what he was doing, but after thinking it through, he had second thoughts. This person was so hard to handle, he was afraid You Xiao would not be fooled again so, it would be better to take this opportunity now to find out his weak point!

As he thought about how to do this, Qi Feng Hua put the porcelain bottle inside his cuff before he continued to ask, "Where is the lethal point of your martial arts?"

"General, you must not say it!" The soldiers all said this in a rush; if the lethal point were known by an expert during a fight, then one would already have lost by half!

There was already a layer of sweat on You Xiao's forehead and he seemed to want to resist, but ultimately, he still answered in a low voice, "Celestial (tian)... Ravine (xi) acupuncture point."

"What the heck did you do to the General?!" It was even the General would say this; could it be that this person had cast a spell?!

These group of people kept shouting and hollering, so Qi Feng Hua became impatient as he coldly narrated, "If you take one more step, I will make him die here immediately. If you do not trust me, you can try it."

The soldiers were each looking at the other, when they finally looked to the young general and asked, "What should we do?"

The young general took one glance at You Xiao and answered with furrowed eyebrows, "Let's stay calm and see if there's any changes. We will wait until the General wakes up and then we will discuss it again!"

After it finally quieted down around him, Qi Feng Hua continued to ask, "What do you fear and long for the most?" These were the two biggest weaknesses for people; one was the origination of his fear and the other was the origination of his longing.

What are his fear and his longing?!

You Xiao only felt these words were echoing in his ears; this seemed to be a question from the bottom of his heart, so what is he afraid of? What is his fear?! Suddenly an image of a dignified man flashed in front of him; every word he said was cold and piercing, every action was ruthless, and no one could defy his orders. When he was a child, he had never looked him in the eyes; what had accompanied him growing up was only swords, spears, and sticks. That person who had been the most heartless to him was actually...

You Xiao replied with some difficulty, "Fa...ther." An appellation that he could never say.

Father? "Why?"

"Fa...ther's recognition." He had been working hard because of this one conviction. He had to get recognition from that person who always gave his back to him (YX). It seemed that he had accomplished something now and he was old. Even though he was still aloof and remote just like before, but he could not ignore him (YX) anymore now!!

Sian's notes:

https://www.rootdown.us/Points/SP\_18

If you're curious on where the celestial ravine acupuncture is located. I think it's somewhere near the lung or chest area. No offense, I think everybody knows that if you get hit anywhere near the chest area, there's a big possibility that you'll die. So I don't think it's only a weak point for one person.

The "Father" appellation is from the word fu qin, which is more formal than the mandarin for modern society which uses the word ba ba.